Kol Nidre reflections

By David Leibling

Every Kol Nidrei when we read the prayer by Leo Baeck before the service proper, I remember how emotional I felt when Rabbi Curtis Cassell z"l, already in his 70s', helped out Middlesex New Synagogue while we were without a full time rabbi. In 1985, he took our Kol Nidrei service. For the first time we were using the recently issued RSGB High Holyday machzor. Immediately before the Kol Nidrei prayer is an excerpt from a prayer written by Rabbi Leo Baeck in 1935. Rabbi Cassell, his voice breaking with emotion, said that on Kol Nidrei exactly 50 years earlier he had been a student in the Hochschule fur die Wissenschaft des Judentem in Berlin and he was asked to read that particular prayer at short notice because Leo Baeck had just been arrested by the Nazis.

The prayer reminds us all to examine what we have done and what we have failed to do and to ask for forgiveness. The full version in the study anthology in the machzor says "We, in indignation and abhorrence, express our contempt for the lies concerning us and the defamation of our religion". No wonder the Nazis arrested Rabbi Baeck.

That Kol Nidrei in 1985, the congregation was stunned into silence and introspection. Besides the incredible emotion that evening, this experience shows the link between the rabbis trained in the Hochschule – the seminary for the scientific study of Judaism, where the pre-war generation of rabbis were trained – and the Leo Baeck College here in Britain which has replaced it.

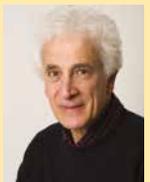

Once again Mosaic will be producing a complimentary 2018 calendar for its members. It will include all the festivals, Shabbat times and community contact details and will be a useful addition to any Mosaic wall!

However, rather than just distributing a copy to each household, for 2018 we will be doing so on a pre-order basis only. Therefore, to place your order please contact the Mosaic office (020-8864 0133 or admin@choosmosaic.org) no later than Thursday 9th November. Your copy will then be delivered with your Kehila at the end of November. Additional copies may also be pre-ordered at £5 each

Remembering my father

By Edwin Lucas

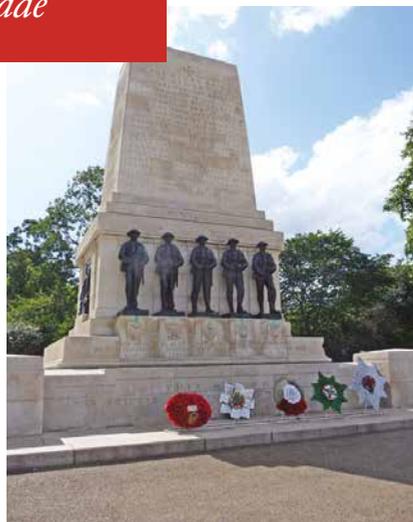

1939 is a long time ago. I, like many of us at Mosaic, was not born yet. My father was a refugee from Nazi Germany, where he had spent time in Dachau concentration camp. He became a member of the Pioneer Corps and served for King and Country in what was to be his homeland. I came along 13 years later and he was already an older parent, which is now the norm, but was not in those days. He was ahead of his time – as a child, I never thought of that.

I remember him on many occasions and think how a refugee from a country of conflict, helped make the United Kingdom safe for people like me and most of our Mosaic community. I march every year at the AJEX parade in Whitehall and am proud, no, very proud, to wear his medals and remember him in a light that is from yesteryear. If any of our readers have a parent or grandparent that served in the war conflicts and would like to remember them in a different manner, apart from the Yahrzeit candle, please join Marvyn Ellison, Linda Lucas and myself at 2pm on Sunday 19th November in Horse Guards parade. We will be marching under the banner of

Please join Marvyn Ellison, Linda Lucas and myself at 2pm on Sunday 19th November in Horse Guards parade

Stoke-on-Trent. The more the merrier and this is open to all age groups. We would be delighted to welcome wheelchair users – I am sure we can find young people to assist them.

Please support your relatives' activities of yesteryear to make our current year possible and please support myself, Linda and Marvyn.

HEMS

It has become a fine tradition at HEMS to address the hono rants somewhat in the style of “This Is Your Life”, directed straight to them with more than a little humour and much joy. Here is just a flavour of those two speeches made in inimitable fashion by Edwin Lucas.

Neil Mendoza

We are pleased to honour Neil, our outgoing Chairman and incoming Honorary Secretary.

Where did Neil get his shul interest from? I gather that he first made a real impression at his Bar Mitzvah, when he chanted his portion, Terumah, and sources close to the honorant say that he was so confident he looked as if he owned the place. In that Parshah, Moses receives instructions on how to build a special sort of “house” for G-d, called the mishkan. This is where G-d’s presence will dwell and where the Jews will be able to perform services for G-d. The next bit is key as it was the original synagogue – in fact, our synagogues today are modelled after, and in place of, the mishkan of old. G-d gives Moses detailed instructions on how to build the mishkan. So, if the building team are looking for support and inspiration, Neil could now help to design our new shul.

As a child, Neil attended B’nai B’rith and saw young Sue there for the first time. He met her again in Chicago and tasted her cooking and then called her “The Chicken Queen” and, would you believe his audacity, he admits to his own mother that Sue’s chicken is better than hers!

Always willing to try new gastronomic adventures, word has it that you are into bombe making, which is not something everyone would be proud of and particularly not these days. Oops, I meant Chocolate bombes. The result is the same and yours exploded.

Neil has had 3 children from their birth and loved parenting so much that he picked up another 2 on the way. He leads by example and his love for shuls has been handed down to his son, Michael, who is, just like his father, making a difference and is stamping his mark on a brilliant, thriving community, which makes him a real chip, off the old block. Sue’s daughter voiced that, “Neil is the best stepfather and treats me like one of his own. He is always there for me and helps me with everything (university, moving out, which petrol to use, my wedding).”

Sue Mendoza

We are delighted to honour Sue, our co-chair of security operations.

Talking of Bar and Bat Mitzvahs, I am sorry you were not Bat Mitzvahed here at HEMS as I always write to the celebrants about friendship. It is not an original theme from me and I plagiarised from a family friend. I hope action on plagiarism is not one of barrister Neil’s specialties!

There are two types of friend – fair-weather friend and friend. The fair-weather ones are not worth having, as when the going gets tough, they get going – off into the sunset. Why am I mentioning this? No, you are not a fair-weather friend and you are there for others. There is an amazing story which touched my heart. You were walking under the clearly visible moon at the moon walk for breast cancer, when your bestie was struggling and felt like giving up. ‘NO’, you said, but you did not just say no, you linked arms with your school pal and like a well-known marathon runner, you helped her to finish the walk together. That is so wonderful.

Someone here calls you “Superwoman”, which is a lovely term and, as we have heard, really apt. This fitness kick however, has not always been on show. At school, which is not that long ago, you used to hide during the cross country. You would never have thought of starting up a regular walking club for the younger generation, to complement Henry’s walking group for the over 40’s, and older still, generation.

You have been a member of our shul for a few years and now have two men in your life. You have Neil at home, to care for and then you co-chair security with another man, Gary. Not only do you look after HEMS, you also do so much work for CST and attend many events voluntarily, look after congregations, gatherings and dignitaries other than your parents and mother in law!

Mosaic Liberal

Alan’s parents were members of the Liberal Jewish Synagogue, and he attended “Classes” there, going to St John’s Wood on his own from Barnet, where the family had moved to at the end of the War. In those days they didn’t have

Bar or Bat Mitzvah at the LJS, but he was “confirmed” at the age of 15.

Janet had lived with her parents and brother in Kenton, and attended Wembley United Cheder from the age of three. After she, her mother and John moved to Rossmore Court, close to Baker Street, they joined Upper Berkeley Street. Janet and Alan met at the very successful Youth Club of the then Wembley Liberal Synagogue in the late 1950s; they later became members of an older group known as Huganu (Our Circle). Alan played for the Prestonians Football Club, mainly comprising members of those groups, in the AJY League.

They married in 1965 at the LJS and lived first in North Harrow, moving in 1971 with their three sons, Mike, Neil and Paul, to their present house in Pinner. As their circle of friends were mostly members of Wembley, they decided in 1971 to join as well. Alan was asked to join the Council and soon became a member of the Administration Committee – looking after the old building at 326 Preston Road. He has served as Synagogue Chairman twice, in the mid-1980s whilst working as a Chartered Surveyor and again after he retired in 2004. He was on the Rites & Practices Committee for 30 years, chaired the Development Committee which oversaw the planning and construction of the new building at Preston Road, and was a member of the Lettings Committee. When members agreed in 2011 to sell the property, he was responsible for arranging the sale and for the move to Bessborough Road. Until earlier this year he served as Administration Officer for Mosaic Jewish Community, and has represented Mosaic Liberal for many years on the LJ Council.

Over the years, Janet worked for a number of local accountancy practices. Her first involvement with the shul was as a member of the Religion School PTA, and she was also secretary of the former Women’s Society. Over the years she has been Synagogue Administrator and later Accounts Manager, and was Secretary of the Rites & Practices Committee for 25 years! She has served two terms on Council, has helped to organise many social events, and deals with the administration of the Yom Kippur Appeal. She is also a member of the MJC Community Group, and is convenor of the Book Group.

Their sons’ religious affiliations are now widely spread – Belsize Square Synagogue, Mosaic Liberal and a progressive Orthodox shul in Tel Aviv. They have a total of 10 grandchildren ranging in age from 23 to two.

They are so grateful to the Synagogue and its founder, Max Salter, for the Youth Club in those early days where they first met, many of whose members have remained their close friends over the last 60 years. They enjoy meeting friends and fellow congregants at shul, and in recent years have formed new friendships with many members of Mosaic Reform and HEMS.

Mosaic Reform

(Linda Holman writes):

This year we are delighted to honour three of our dedicated volunteers, Neil Goodman, our Chatan Torah, and Harry and Bertha Levy, our Chatan and Kallat Bereshit.

Neil, born in April 1946, spent his early years with his parents and sister in Edgware. After leaving school Neil joined the family electronics business but after further retail experiences he decided to take-up mini cabbage, a short-term job which lasted 15 years. In 1994 Neil passed the advanced driving test, and after two years became a fully qualified self-employed driving instructor.

Neil met Miriam in 1967 at Alyth gardens Youth Club, they married at South Hampstead United synagogue and moved to Harrow where they are still living in the same house. They have two children, James and Joanna. In 1987 Neil and Mim decided to join MNS where James was Bar Mitzvah in 1993. They now have four grandchildren.

In 2002 Neil was a contestant in ‘The Weakest Link’ which inspired him to compile and present quizzes to local schools, charities, sports clubs and our own shul magazine.

In 2016 Neil started driving a mini-bus for a private school – a job which he loves. Neil is also the proud owner of a motor scooter on which he has delivered Bimah and now Kehila for 17 years to more than 20 addresses in and around North Harrow, Harrow and Harrow Weald.

Bertha arrived in this country as a refugee from Brussels with her younger sister and parents in 1940. The family settled in the Kings Cross area. After leaving local school at 15 Bertha was employed for 10 years at JNF. In 1955 she met Harry Levy at Notting Hill Jewish Youth Club and two years later they married at Lea Bridge Road Synagogue.

Harry was born in 1934, the youngest of 5 children. During the war he was evacuated, but in 1944 returned to live in North Kensington. After leaving school aged 16 he signed professional football forms for Fulham FC, was employed as an office junior, and then entered the newspaper publishing industry as a junior trainee at Associated Newspapers Group. In 1953 he did military service in Egypt for two years. Eventually Harry held executive positions on various newspapers groups. Before his retirement he returned to Associated Newspapers as Provincial Chairman.

Bertha and Harry have three children, Clive, Grant and Michelle and six grandchildren. In 1965, Harry and Bertha moved to Hatch End and joined MNS, where their children were bar-and-bat-mitzvah. Harry helped to organise MINYS youth club as well as coaching the extremely successful MNS football team which he trained on Wednesday evenings and supported on Sundays from 1971 to 1977. Harry has also been a telenet phoner since the 1970s.

In the early 1970's Bertha joined the Harrow Friendship Club as a helper, became a committee member after three years, joint chairman for several years and has been Chairman for ten years – the longest serving ever. The club is the most successful Friendship Club in the UK and is about to celebrate its 40th birthday. For 20 years, until 2014, Bertha also organised the cleaning of all the Ritual silver. Harry has unstintingly supported Bertha's involvement in the Friendship Club over many years and helps with driving members on Mondays.

Kabbalat Torah First Kol Chai students join KT class

Both Joe Rosen and Ben Brownstone from Kol Chai chose to join the Mosaic Kabbalat Torah classes after their Bar Mitzvahs to continue learning about their Jewish culture. Amongst other things, they particularly enjoy the classes on history and ethics, taught by Rabbis Frank and Kathleen.

FILM MOSAIC

At 8:00pm on Tuesday 28th November

FEAR EATS THE SOUL

(German with English subtitles)

Emmi, a lonely cleaner loves Ali, a Moroccan immigrant who is 20 years her junior, much to the chagrin of the 1970s resentfully racist “anständig” (Civilised) post war Munich middle class.

Fassbender’s movie is a heart-rending and extremely prescient drama, offering a dispassionate dissection of the social pressures and racial hatred (still) apparent in 70s Germany. It is a love story between two lonely souls and an indictment of hidden xenophobia and racism that still existed in Germany.

Donations for our chosen charity would be appreciated if you care to give.

Mosaic Biscuit Bake-In
 Wednesday 8th November, 10am

By popular demand, members are invited back into the kitchen on Wednesday 8th November at 10.00 am to do some home cooking to make biscuits and tray bakes for kiddushim and the Shabbat “welcome” sessions. Just come along with your apron but please let the office know you’re coming so that we’re sure we have enough ingredients for you.

An evening at Mosaic
With Paul Mendelson, acclaimed screenwriter

by Annette Ashmele

The packed crowd at Mosaic on Sunday evening 8th October was in for a treat!

Delicious canapés and prosecco were followed by a delightful talk by Paul; he showed us extracts from his TV comedies: From May to December, My Hero amongst others, together with his first spaghetti commercial and told us how he came to be a writer, having abandoned his first career in law.

We have probably all enjoyed his television scripts and are able to relish the very Jewish humour which flavours Paul’s writings; but, I also find that here is an author with a profound understanding of human nature (Jewish or otherwise). He writes with a light comic touch but also with empathy and compassion.

On Sunday Paul introduced us to his two new novels: the debut novel, a romcom based on his very early experience as a novice lawyer, In the Matter of Isabel, and his children’s book, Losing Arthur – suitable for children from 9 to 90! Both books have received rave reviews.

The evening closed with a book signing by Paul. I am sure that his books will prove to be as successful as his television scripts.

Our thanks to the Mosaic Community team, who helped make Sunday such a terrific evening.

Live reading of Ruth Barnett's play

Ruth Barnett's play, 'What Price for Justice', was read by actors at the Tristan Bates Theatre in Covent Garden on 11th August. As Ruth notes, 'This is the true story about a judge in Berlin, sacked by the Nazis in 1933, who escaped in 1939 to Shanghai and returned in 1948 in the hope of reclaiming his home, reuniting his family and helping to build up a more just new Germany, only to find himself thwarted at every turn by former Nazis that had been in professional positions of authority right through the Nazi period with no discontinuity.' The judge is Ruth's father, Dr Robert Michaelis (1903-1973).

The play highlights the traumatising of families and the failure of achieving justice in the aftermath. Tragically, genocides continue to be perpetrated and, according to Ruth, this is in great part due to 'massive denial based on ignorance'.

Anti-semitism at the Labour party conference

The Labour Party Conference has reconvinced me of the blatant anti-semitism that is part of the Jeremy Corbyn phenomenon. He is incapable of uttering the word 'Jew' without recourse to an additional and alternative race. He cannot utter the word 'Israel' without an alternative such as 'Palestine'.

He seemed to thrive in the giving out of the blatantly anti-semitic literature at his recent re-crowning as labour leader at the conference.

As Jews in this country, I believe we have to be afraid at the possibility of Corbyn becoming Prime Minister.

All those Jews that support the Labour philosophy should be looking to consider an alternative left-wing party before it is too late.

Alternatively, perhaps those just left of centre Labourites and those just right of centre Tories could consider joining Vince Cable to see if the Liberals can take over the moderate voice in the UK. Or maybe David Milliband can be persuaded to give up his job handling world refugees in New York and help in the formation of a Centrist Party (a la Macron in France)

HEMS succah

As a new HEMS council member, I have attended shul many times over the recent weeks and enjoyed the warmth and friendliness of the members.

I also attended the invites to the Succah by Gill and David Ross and thoroughly enjoyed myself.

However, I was disappointed to learn that several members who booked did not in fact come or cancel, leaving a surplus of food. These absentees missed a really great time.

Members do please come next year. It is disheartening for those involved not to get support.

From Viv Block

Thank you to the 80+ tea party organisers

Once again, the intrepid, amazing Jane Prentice organised a superb tea party for the more elderly in our community on 23rd July. A team of dedicated volunteers from both the Reform/Liberal congregation helped prepare the tea, decorated the Kiddush room, laid the tables and made a variety of sandwiches, cakes, scones [cooked by Jane], four dozen egg mayonnaise filling [prepared by Vera]. It turned out to be a very successful gathering. Thanks also to the incredible 'Plonkers' [David Martin, Steve Noble and David Pollak] who provided the entertainment.

Jane always manages to go that 'extra mile' and I personally would like to thank her and the team for another excellent event. It's hard work, but very rewarding when one sees so many members enjoying themselves. Once again thank you so much for all you do.
